One hundred and eighty-five members of Carders' union No. 155 refused to work Monday afternoon when 10 members of the carding room continued their refusal to join the union. These 10 members were also women and one man. The trouble started, it is claimed, during September, 1919, when the non-union carders took up the work of trying to break the union already established and form another on faster terms.

The story as told by P. W. Kraus, president of the Textile council of Willimantic, was to the effect that when collectors of the union made their rounds among the union members these 10 persons would go to some of the union members and, speaking to them in Polish, tell them that they were to pay, as the union was no good. They told the Polish members of the union that there was no need to belong to the union and say that they could be non-union and get as much pay. Their talk was also directed at many times they had stated that the Carders' union was too slow and that if they could run a union they would ask for more pay, and if it wasn't forthcoming they would make things happen pretty quick.

Putting all these things together, the members of the Carders' union decided they would not work with this class of people and that unless they stopped their agitation among the carders and joined the union, the union members would refuse to work with them. The company was notified and the non-union members were notified of the resolution of the Carders' union. Monday morning the Carders' union delegates met with Agent Don H. Curtis and explained the situation and it was decided that the company would be given until 1 o'clock to make different arrangements, or the carders would refuse to work. The walkout followed at 1:20 o'clock, having the sanction of the Textile council affiliated with the textile organization of America.

As far as the plant officials are concerned, they cannot compel the non-union members to join the union. The officials state, however, that if the department is closed for any length of time it will affect production to a great extent and may necessitate the closing down of the entire plant.

The carders feel that the officials have not something to do with it and at a meeting this (Tuesday) afternoon further plans will be discussed dealing with the situation. The Textile council also meets tonight, but nothing could be learned whether or not there would be a sympathy strike if the carders did not reach any agreement with the company.

ice scales would cost about $500. He also stated that when the 8 mill tax was figured the $3600 had been included. This was then unanimously voted to be granted. Adjournment came at 8:25 the meeting being harmonious throughout.

The annual meeting of the Y. M. C. A. was held Monday night at the association about 100 being present. A supper was served at 6:30 o'clock by members of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. The menu being as follows: tomato soup, wafers, cold sliced beef, mashed potatoes, gravy, pickles, rolled doughnuts, and cheese. Immediately following the supper President Fred D. Jordan called the meeting to order and Secretary Frank H. Elmer read a report of the last annual meeting of the Y. M. C. A. The report was accepted as read. Secretary J. D. Elmerdorf was then called upon for the financial report of the year which was in brief as follows: Income, $14,504.13, expenses $15,273.78, leaving a deficit for the year amounting to $769.65. The deficit of last year amounted to $2611.18. The total liability of the association was $1166.69, of which there were $274.73 in cash assets, leaving an indebtedness of $1193.51. The report of the secretary of the ladies' auxiliary covered the year's work of that organization and reported a balance of $205.83 on hand at the end of the year. These reports were accepted.

Secretary Elmerdorf then read the association report for the year summarized as follows: membership; there are now 750 members enrolled or a gain of 37 over 1919. At one time during the year 225 membership cards were held by various parties. Social: there had been 49 social affairs of which 21 were for the boys. Alloys had been opened and billiard tables installed everything being a success. Entertainment: the association had put on several entertainments with great success due in part to the work of the individuals in charge of the committees and to members of the staff. Physical: under the leadership of C. A. Sampson there had been three gymnasium exhibitions, four health talks, boxing classes, and 75 were taught to swim. Boys department: conducted until March 1, 1920 by Mr. C. H. Beebe. Mr. Elmerdorf recommended either an endorsement or a special financing of this department to carry the work to a finer degree. Dormitory: 351 men had used the rooms and over 1000 had been assigned rooms in local houses. The Woman's Department had shown great growth. The Woman's Auxiliary could not be thanked sufficiently for their great work during the past year. Community work: free swimming classes had been held for grammar school students, 654 boys enjoying the privileges and 58 taught to swim. Twenty-three free swimming memberships had been given away and free classes one night a week had been granted to boys in various churches. Educational work and citizenship work had resulted in 55 men taking out first papers, 80 men taking out second papers, and 50 men being aided in securing passports. Americanization work: Three campaigns had been conducted, 36 meetings held attended by 200 at which 5 special speakers had been heard. Socials: There were 49 socials during the year, six entertainments given, 25 motion picture entertainments given, some at Recreation park. Thrift campaign had been conducted, cards sent out and over 6000 reached through the mills in thrift work. The report was accepted as read and placed on file.

At this time Mr. Jordan called upon the ladies' auxiliary for a few words and Mrs. Fred D. Jordan on behalf of that organization presented Mr. Elmerdorf a $10 gold piece as a token of remembrance from the ladies. Assistant Secretary Frank R. Custard on behalf of the men also presented Mr. Elmerdorf with a gold watch chain with gold fountain pen attached. Mr. Elmerdorf responded expressing his gratitude for the gifts and for the spirit in which they were made. He left a motto for the local Y to adopt as follows: Courtesy, Willingness to work, will bring success.

The annual election of officers followed. Robert H. Fenton reading the list of directors to be voted upon. As it was thought best to continue the present excellent officers in place all five were elected with the exception of one who felt that he must resign. The directors will be: President, Fred D. Jordan, H. C. Latham, W. N. Potter, M. J. Hopkins, George E. Hinman.

Professor J. W. Wetzel of Yale University was then introduced and he spoke on present day conditions. He was followed by F. D. Faye, the newly appointed secretary of the local Y. M. C. A. Both men were heartily applauded at the conclusion of their address.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

At the Strand.

The Strand has a wonderful program for Tuesday and Wednesday. They have the best musicians in Norwich and three big time acts. The strand is featuring the Nine Mischiefs Maheen in a schoolroom. They are a new old feel young. There are lots of old, dancing, and singing. This is a new act of its kind and proved a big success. The Strand is showing next in a music act. These are the best in a music act. These are the best in a music act. These are the best in a music act.

Maes Murray is at the Strand theatre for the first time in his new picture. The A. B. C. of Love. It's a love Perret production for Pathe, and it means it's a corking entertainment. The story is a charming romantic comedy-drama in which the prettiest of many models portrays one of her most vivacious roles.

Maes Murray fairly scintillates in this pretty little love story of a naive country girl who is loved by two men. It is a play which whose love chills conspire when he takes his bride away from her natural environment and finds her not measuring up to the sophisticated ways of the city.

"The A. B. C. of Love" is the romance of springtime. It bubbles with humor, and is particularly laughable when Kate takes a nice soap-suds bath in the stationary wash tub in the kitchen. An up-to-date, weekly closes this fine time show at the Strand. Watch for the surprise show Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Broad Theatre.

Today the Broad will present for the last three times Alexander Dumas' most famous story, "The Corsican Brothers." This story has been read throughout the entire world, and as a stage play has been played in practically every city in the civilized world. The screen version of this famous play and story has been produced with the same care and to the smallest detail. A fortune was spent to back up the thrilling play with an elaborate and fitting production. Dustin Farrar has been chosen as the star and has a wonderfully effective part in this production. His acting of the characters will go down in motion picture history as one of the finest achievements of the silent drama. Supporting him in the leading female role is delightful and popular Winifred Kingston.

A moving Century comedy and Pathe News make up the remainder of the bill for today and tonight.

VIRGINIA WOMAN TO SPEAK AT SUFFRAGE EMERGENCY MEETING.

That motherhood and the training of the child are among the most fundamental factors in making a nation an active interest in citizenship, and a desire to obtain and to use the ballot, is the belief of Mrs. Edith Clark Cowles, of Richmond, Virginia. Having lived consecutively in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Virginia, Mrs. Cowles represents the intelligent and thoughtful attitude of the most progressive womanhood of the South. Mrs. Cowles is to be one of the speakers at the suffrage emergency meeting in the town hall tonight.

A mother and a kindergarten by profession, she represents the effort of enlightened motherhood to instill into the children of the nation at an early age the principles of good citizenship. When her own young daughter had been started in the pathway of good citizenship, Mrs. Cowles found time to devote to the cause which she felt would bring more closely to the womanhood of the nation the opportunity of extending home influence into society at large. She then became the executive and press secretary of the Virginia Equal Suffrage League, a position which she has held for four years, and through these legislative campaigns it was due in part to her energy and activities in this field, together with those of other officers and workers, that over thirty thousand Virginians petitioned the last session of the legislature for suffrage action.

PACKARD FUELIZER EXCITES INTEREST OF AUTOMOBILISTS.

An exhibition of the Packard fuelizer at the New London show rooms of the company, 231 Williams street, has been attracting the attention of automobile owners for the last few days. Anything which helps to check the increasing cost of living, which actually lowers the cost of maintaining a motor car, is welcomed by motorists as cordially as three days.

The fuelizer is a device which achieves perfect combustion on any grade of gasoline. It reduces carbon trouble and valve grinding, it makes starting as quick and sure in winter as in summer, it reduces the wear and tear on all moving parts of a motor.

The demonstrating car has been in town since Friday, and Branch Manager E. E. Patterson has expressed great satisfaction at the ease with which the average motorist has grasped the principles of the fuelizer. Many people have come to the show room and many more have seen the car on the streets.

Purchase Modern Bungalow.

Through the agency of Arch. W. Call the fine modern bungalow at No. 17 Linden parkway has been sold to Henry H. Murray of this city. The house was built about five years ago by Nelson V. Porter and is exceptionally well finished throughout. There is a two story garage containing a three room suite for chauffeur's occupancy. Through this same real estate agency the sale of The Smith Pharmacy, Inc., was recently made by Mary W. Smith, et al. and the purchaser has elected Francis K. Eggleston as manager and treasurer of the corporation.
